Henriette van Lynden lecture

The next ‘Henriette van Lynden lecture’ will take place on Thursday, March 20, just days before the Nuclear Security Summit. The lecture will focus on nuclear security, nuclear terrorism and geopolitics in the Middle East:

‘From Arab Spring to Nuclear Winter? Nuclear Security, Nuclear Terrorism and Geopolitics in the Middle East’.

You are welcome on Thursday, March 20, 2014 in the Rode Hoed, Keizersgracht 102 in Amsterdam, from 19.30 hrs. to 21.30 hrs. (lecture starts at 20.00 hrs.). Drinks will be served afterwards.

Prof. Sir Lawrence Freedman, Prof. Nasser Hadian, and Ambassador Sameh Aboul-Enein will present their views on the topic and participate in a panel discussion. Mr. Meir Javedanfar will participate in the discussion from Israel via a live connection.

Sir Lawrence Freedman
Sir Lawrence Freedman is Professor of War Studies at King's College in London and former foreign policy adviser to Prime Minister Tony Blair. He is a sought-after speaker on nuclear policy and strategy.

Nasser Hadian
Nasser Hadian is Professor of Political Science at the University of Tehran, and an internationally renowned expert on Iranian nuclear policy.

Sameh Aboul-Enein
Professor of International Security and Disarmament in the School of Global Affairs at the American University in Cairo.

Meir Javedanfar
Meir Javedanfar is originally from Iran and a famous Israeli expert on Iran-Israeli relations and author of books such as “The Nuclear Sphinx of Tehran”.
